

Towards Sustainable CDM projects

Household and community level projects under CDM can provide a much needed contribution to improving livelihoods in poor communities. These projects – better adapted to the local realities – reconcile the needs of reducing poverty whilst mitigating climate change

Friday 3 April 2009, from 18:00 – 20:00

Location: Maritim Hotel Godesberger Allee, 53175 Bonn

Welcome and Moderation:

Sascha Gabizon, Executive Director WECF

Key Note Speech:

The submission of Georgia on the review of project based mechanism CDM
Grigol Lazriev, Head of the Hydrometeorology and Climate Change Division of the Ministry of Environment Protection and Natural Resources of Georgia, UNFCCC Focal Point in Georgia

The choice of energy for the CDM – consequences for local communities

“Renewable energy development projects in rural settlements”

Keti Kiria, Greens Movement of Georgia, Georgia

“Environmental and Health aspects of Nuclear Energy:

Low Level Radiation – High-Level Risks”

Kaisha Atakanova, Kazakhstan

The choice of approach for CDM implementation – opportunities and challenges

“CDM development in Kyrgyzstan: opportunities and challenges”

Nurzat Abdyrasulova, UNISON – Ecological Foundation, Kyrgyzstan

“CDM for household level, catalyst for climate protection in Tajikistan”

Timur Idrisov, Little Earth, Tajikistan

“Challenges of CDM, experiences from a „gold standard“ CDM implementing Company”

Florian Zerzawy, Atmosfair, Germany

Panel discussion

Closing: WECF position on the review of project based mechanism, focus CDM,

Sabine Bock, WECF Germany

Contact in Bonn:

Nicole van Gemert, WECF +31 622 95 00 27

Sabine Bock, WECF +49-176-22 82 74 65

nachdenken • klimabewusst reisen

atmosfair

Invitation